

How We Partner with Endowments and Foundations

Brown Advisory Services for Endowments and Foundations

If you are responsible for the investment affairs of an endowment or foundation—as a board member or as a member of an investment committee—your task has grown more difficult in recent years. You face more complex capital markets, tougher oversight by regulators, expectations of donors and lower expected market returns. And if you are grappling with a constrained budget, you may be struggling to build up the internal resources that you need to effectively address this challenging investment environment.

For more than 20 years, Brown Advisory has partnered with endowments and foundations to help them achieve ambitious investment and organizational objectives.

The Case for Outsourcing: Making More from Less

When citing reasons for outsourcing, endowments and foundations often mention a lack of their own internal resources, a desire for greater risk management and the ability for decisions to be made more quickly in their investment portfolio.

Many endowments and foundations are currently challenged in their pursuit of sufficient portfolio returns to satisfy disbursement and overall budgetary objectives. Due to a prolonged period of slower global economic growth, low interest rates, an aging population in the developed world and many other factors, achieving desired return targets has become more difficult. As shown in the chart above, in 1997, an endowment could have earned an annualized return of 7.5% from a low-risk fixed income portfolio. In 2017, it needed to take on nearly three times more potential volatility in order to achieve that same return—requiring an investment portfolio spread across many different asset classes with far more complex and illiquid investments. This reality has complicated the jobs of both boards and investment committees that oversee endowed assets; our responsibility is to be a trusted partner in helping make these decisions.

Our Approach to Portfolio Construction

Listening first to understand an endowment or foundation's goals has proven to be the most successful approach to constructing and managing our clients' portfolios. We build each of our client's portfolios and customize them to their unique needs and their specific long-term goals.

As fundamental, value-conscious investors, our approach is methodical. We use quantitatively and qualitatively derived scenario analysis to consider a wide range of positive and negative scenarios.

We use a combination of internally and externally managed strategies and leverage Brown Advisory's equity, fixed income, private equity and alternatives research teams to source high-conviction ideas across the investable universe.

1 As your investment partner, we believe it is our duty to develop a comprehensive understanding of your organization's circumstances and goals.

2 With a clear understanding of your organization's objectives, we can help you develop or refine your investment policy statement to reflect these goals.

3 We review your organization's investment policy statement annually to ensure that it aligns with your evolving goals.

Our Approach to Strategic Advice

Our strategic advisors are legal, accounting and philanthropic professionals who come from diverse professional backgrounds and experiences: from established law firms, to advising government officials, to extensive work with families and foundations.

group spearheads ongoing conversations address questions concerning appropriate spend rates, the types and structures of assets that nonprofits should accept from donors, the optimal methods for framing conversations around planned giving, and appropriate strategies for pursuing mission-aligned investing. In our experience, it is most effective to consider these issues in concert with ongoing investment management decisions to ensure a cohesive pursuit of long-term goals.

Our strategic advisors do not work in isolation. We understand that endowments and foundations may have multiple advisors outside of Brown Advisory. We are well-equipped to work closely with and leverage these external advisors, accountants, committee members, and attorneys that may already be involved in helping navigate financial and strategic decision-making.

Strategic Advisors work alongside Portfolio Managers to address clients most pressing challenges.

Sustainable Investing for Endowments and Foundations

Many endowments struggle to reconcile two equally important goals when deploying capital: maximizing the risk-adjusted total return of their investment portfolio, and maximizing progress toward their mission. Brown Advisory believes that a thoughtful, sustainable investment approach can bridge the gap between these goals, creating a unified portfolio strategy.

Since our founding, Brown Advisory has been working with clients, both religious and secular, seeking value-centric, mission-based and sustainable investing programs. This mindset is woven into the fabric of our firm—from our internal ESG (environmental, social and governance) investment offerings in equities and fixed income, to the suite of open architecture sustainable managers we use to construct client portfolios. Our commitment to investing sustainably goes beyond passive approaches like negative screening, and instead considers ESG as a critical input to our evaluation of investments, construction of portfolios and reporting of client investment “performance.”

Sustainable investing allows endowments and foundations to support their mission beyond grant-making without sacrificing performance.

A Spectrum of Options for Driving Impact

Traditionally, foundations invested their capital for financial gain, then spent or granted a certain amount each year to advance their mission. Today, foundations are considering a broad spectrum of investment options that help them pursue their financial and mission-related goals at the same time.

Classic Investing

Traditional approach to investing portfolios solely based on maximizing return for a given level of risk.

Mission-Related Investing (MRI)

Investments that primarily pursue financial return; mission alignment is a component of these strategies.
MRI's are now more broadly accepted by fiduciaries thanks to clear IRS guidance.

Program-Related Investing (PRI)

Investments that pursue programmatic objectives; financial returns are a secondary goal.
PRIs may satisfy annual spending requirements for private foundations.

Philanthropic Giving

Traditional approach to driving progress through grantmaking or funding in-house activities.
